David Franklin Jackson

A great rosarian was lost on Sunday evening, August 7, 2022, with the passing of David Jackson, two days short of his 71st birthday. He is survived by his wife Margaret (Maggie) Cahill Jackson, three children, Elizabeth, Jessica, and David, and five grandchildren. He was a River Valley School vocal music teacher and a founder of the Delaware Area Rose Society (DARS) in 2004. He served as its President in 2006 and 2007, and there has hardly been an activity of the Society in which he has not been involved since. He was the first and only editor of the DelaRose, the monthly, full color DARS newsletter. Next month's issue, Volume 20, No. 8, awaits on his desk.

David was a leader in rose education as exemplified by his work with Roses For Youth (RFY), an annual springtime program held at Miller's Country Gardens for pre-school and above kids to learn how to plant and care for their own rose. His voice could be heard on the local radio station, instructing the audience and answering their questions on how to grow roses.

As a member of the William Street United Methodist Church, he negotiated with the church a venue for DARS spring rose shows and other Society rose events. Dave and a colleague are responsible for the planting and care for the rose garden along the walk leading to the church entrance.

In 2006 David was awarded the Buckeye District Bronze medal for meritorious service to rose promotion. His service to the Society was unending, from ordering doughnuts for exhibitors preparing their roses for a show to urging members to participate in the Delaware County Fair rose shows, David was at work. "Well done, good and faithful servant" indeed, The floral emblem of the United States of America salutes you, Dave Jackson.

DISTRICT DIRECTOR REPORT

Covid Concerns Cancel Top Gun

Just when we had Top Gun 2022 all planned and were feeling comfortable getting together, along came the new Covid BA.5 variant. We cancelled Top Gun 2022 because our guest speaker, Dr. Satish Prabhu, informed Jim Hering thet he had contracted Covid. In addition, many of those who attended the Columbus Rose Show the first week of June came down with it and also Duane DeDene former Great Lakes District Director, who planned to attend Top Gun tested positive. The rate of infection plus the possibilities of Long Covid was enough for Jim and I to decide to cancel. The saddest part of this is that Satish was supposed to be our Top Gun speaker the two other years when we had to cancel due to covid.

It seems our new "normal" is getting used to the everchanging Covid virus and weather. I was talking to Susan Courter the other day. When our phone call ended, I was going out to water my roses here in Northwest Ohio and she was wondering how the 5 plus inches of rain they had in the center of the state was going to affect her roses. However, as we all know the challenge of growing great roses is to out-smart the weather, the fungi, insects and rose diseases. Did I get a smile with that one?

See you in September at our Fall Buckeye District Meeting and Rose Show

We hope you will bring lots of those wonderful roses to exhibit at our fall District Meeting and Rose Show September 24, 2022 in Waldo.

Please remember there are now more awards for you to compete.

Queen, King and Princess plus a court for HT/Grandiflora, Miniflora and Miniature classes, Queen, King and Princess for Floribunda Shrub Spray and Modern Shrub classes,

And Gold Silver and Bronze for Photography classes. The Robert and Mildred Lawton Trophy will be awarded for best of Show in Photography.

Many thanks to the show committee. This includes, Brian Burley, Gary Barlow and Terri Lady, Jim and Anne Hering, Elton Smith, Sue Dickman, Lisa Joos and Mark Miller plus all the other helpers. As we noted in previous Buckeye Bulletins, we have the show in Waldo because it is in the center of the state. Brian, our show chairperson decided that the best help everyone could offer is to help clean up after the show. So please, plan to stay and help tear down.

ARS continues working on new goals.

Diane Summers, President of the American Rose Society, has 5 goals for 2022. They include;

- 1. Enhance Membership benefits and educational opportunities
- 2.Leverage technology to improve efficiency and enhance member experience and support.
- 3.Identify and support staff needs and development.
- 4.Transfer from American Rose Garden phases to ongoing garden operation
- 5. Create a path towards financial stability

For goals 1 and 2, ARS Is Going Digital offering online courses and speakers while working on a Web-site redesign.

Many new courses/ seminars are currently being introduced on line. It seems that every week there is a new ARS rose webinar you can watch. On July, 16, Claude Graves gave a presentation on Ramblers, The Majestic Giant Rose".

I just received an email announcing a 30-minute webinar, July 28, 2pm EST, with Wes Harvell, Jackson & Perkins' Rosarian and Diane Sommers, President of the American Rose Society, to talk about Summer Care for Roses. They'll cover best watering practices, how to care for roses in summer whether you live in the northern or southern states, techniques for growing roses in containers, and so much more! This comes just in time to help fill the void of Top Gun!

Another new feature are the seminars/courses that a judge needs to attend to remain accredited. According to Jim Hering, these seminars are a painless way for judges to get their credits – no travel & no test for accredited judges. In either two or four one- hour sessions, you can fulfill your requirement seminar hours to remain an accredited Judge. One can also attend Consulting Rosarian Classes and also take the test on line.

For Goal 3, Identify and support staff needs and development, Diane is working hard to make sure the staff has adequate resources and tools to fulfill their responsibilities and also provide competitive wages and benefits, including a 403(b(retirement plan).

For Goal 4, Transition from the "project phase" to an ongoing garden operation, some changes will be needed including hiring an Event Planner. The current staff puts on the Lights before Christmas and other events which include bringing food trucks etc. However, weddings require a chapel where photos can be taken and a nice Brides room. The goal is to paint the dark wood in the chapel a lighter color plus paint the brides room and get some better furniture. In addition, the staff needs help choosing companion plants which will provide color throughout the garden the entire blooming season.

For Goal 5, Create a Path towards Financial Stability, ARS is working on getting a $100,000 grant from the State of Louisiana, a tourism grant for $20.000, a $55,000 lighting grant and a Louisiana Trails grant. There are not many parks or other attractions in that part of Louisiana so that is why the state is interested in providing grants to the ARS gardens, The staff continues to ask the local chapters to encourage their members to join ARS.

2023 ARS National Convention Shreveport LA May 4-7, 2023

A national convention was not planned until 2024 However, Ruth Tiffany, the Convention Chair and Linda Clark, Pacific SW District Director got together and planned the event with a Rose Show at the beginning rather than a day or two into the event.

Buckeye President's Message – July 2022

The Rose Shows are in decline – What to do about it? This is the third year of my Horticultural Judge Apprenticeship with one more show to go to complete my 5. Admitted, I am only a beginner and have not travelled widely, sticking to the Ohio District at Cincinnati (2), Buckeye District and Columbus. Enjoyed everyone and impressed with the level of Judging prowess and professionalism. A lovely way to spend a day. On the other side of that coin, I have organized many horticultural rose shows in Cincinnati over the years. This requires many parts comings together from deciding location, creating a scaled diagram with the tables laid out, planning the Classes layout, and finally creating the schedule. And then comes the actual show which requires gathering volunteers and executing the plan both at the front end and teardown. If your lucky this can occur the night before and teardown on the afternoon of the show and hopefully using lots of volunteers. Fingers crossed exhibitors show up and all the planning and workload produce a show with lots of roses and a quality of exhibits we all can be proud of.

Sadly, this is not the case. The number of exhibitors and exhibits has shrunk alarmingly. It is common for many classes to have few or at times, zero roses entered in that specific class. Looking back over the last 200 years rose shows have tried to adapt. The first rose show was held in London July 1858 at St James Hall. Roses were shown in boxes of 48, 36, 24, 18, 12 & 6. Mostly professional arborists in those early days. Fast forward 100 years to 1959 and shows were divided by the number of roses grown in your garden and those with and without assistance. Rose shows had expanded into local communities. These shows were smoke filled union halls and rosarians dressed in tweeds, dicky bows, and wellies. Fiercely competitive and secretive, careful not to share winning formulae. Today, we have massively expanded the number of classes to accommodate the array of rose types from HTs to polyanthas and lots in between. Adding singles, sprays, hi & lo, etc. And reducing the rose count to one in most classes. Despite this accommodating redesign the numbers, specially in the last 10 years, the rose counts entered continue to go down. This is particularly noticeable in smaller local communities and the district shows. So, the writing is on the wall.

What to do about it? The current set of supremely talented rosarians that remain are holding this shaky foundation together. Unfortunately, this is a shrinking crowd that tend to step on their own toes! For example, those that set up the show, Judges and volunteers are also the ones with the larger number of roses and the same people that bring the roses to show. A bit like the track & field officials also running the race as well. These priceless rose enthusiasts are also getting older and frailer (sherlock). Let me tell you what we in Cincinnati have done to try and remain relevant and try to boost the numbers that care about a Rose Show.

- 1) High number of ladies on the organizing committee with out of the box ideas.
- 2) Number of classes in the horticultural division constantly scrutinized to remove those with little or no entries in future shows. This also reduces the supplies needed and the time and effort to set up and teardown the show.

- 3) Focus same amount of attention to the arrangement division as the horticultural. This has become the jewel of the show and now includes large numbers of non-member exhibitors, including several professional arrangement teachers and event designers.
- 4) Both Spring & Fall shows are in locations that have attracted 100's of visitors that wander around the exhibits. The Spring event is held in the Bonsai Room at the Krohn Conservatory near downtown and to be fair the public are "forced" to pass by the rose show as this is the exit direction to the parking lot.
- 5) Add things that provide entertainment or incentive for the public to have reason to come: Free lunch box to all exhibitors, Jazz Band, Raptor Society, Butterfly event at same location (Krohn Conservatory location for our Spring show), Wildflower society, beekeepers, extensive games for children, free ice cream, etc. and lastly classes on select subjects given by talented teachers during the afternoon.
- 6) Expanding the social media images to attract those that use social media and target those sites that feed the younger crowd: Snapchat, TikTok and Twitter. Also maintain presence to the middle-aged crowd: Facebook and email. All this is glued together by the critically important website: www.rosesgrowandshow.com
- 7) The shows are dedicated to not only attract the best of us but to also persuade the least knowledgeable amongst us that we care about them as well.

The downside of all this is it requires more planning and more volunteers, and you need to start earlier in the year. Also, that gets into to my earlier comment regarding older and frailer volunteers. Another comment I must make is that despite the significantly large number of publics that attend we still only get a trickle of those that actually join. It a small step in the right direction and a whole lot of fun.

Chris Brogan – GCRA & Buckeye District President 2022.

Rose Midge, My Grandmother's Mother or Midge, She is Exhausting!

Cheryl Menard

Rose Midge is no lady! My apologies to anyone named Midge.

Rose Midge emerges from pupae in the soil in the spring. Adult Midges mate and the females lay eggs inside the sepals of new leaf buds. Tiny white maggots hatch and feed in the leaf bud causing distorted buds, sideways buds; or more likely than not, tips that are blackened and aborted.

The first sign of Rose Midge damage is minimal in early spring, but damage occurs during the summer until Rose Midge injury may be quite severe. If Rose Midge has taken up residency in your garden, the one thing you no longer have is BUDS; thus you have no ROSE BLOOMS!

Rose Midge's life cycle is 12 days, and the warmer the temperatures, the shorter the life cycle. This is one reason that controlling Rose Midge is so difficult.

Effective Control: Imidacloprid (Merit). Imidacloprid can be found in the Bayer Advanced product, Bayer Advanced Complete Insect Killer. You have to break the life cycle by treating the entire rose garden every three days for two weeks. I am saying to treat the entire rose garden because I made the mistake of only spraying where Rose Midge damage was identified. If you find Rose Midge damage, assume that your entire rose garden has been affected. The Rose Midge insect is in the family of mosquitoes; thus, they can fly to the next bush or across the garden. It is recommended that you spray in the evening when the honey bees have returned to their hives. You need to spray the bud area of each bush as well as the soil or mulch beneath each rose bush because the life cycle begins all over again when the adult Midges mate on the surface of the soil or mulch.

A Non-Chemical Control: Closely observe each rose bush every day. If Rose Midge is detected, remove the affected growth immediately and destroy the debris. Never compost affected clippings! My experience is that you will never be in control of Rose Midge if you are constantly chasing this flying insect.

DISTRICT DIRECTOR AUDREY PALUMBO IS NOW AN ACCREDITED HORTICULTURE JUDGE –

Congratulations to Audrey for successfully completing her horticulture judging apprenticeship which she began three years ago. Apprenticeships in the past three years have taken longer to finish because of fewer rose shows to judge. Now we have the choice of addressing Audrey as either "Boss" or "Your Honor".

ELTON AND ANN SMITH – Elton underwent major surgery for removal of a malignant tumor of his mandible (jaw bone) and reconstruction of his jaw on June 14th. This surgery was successful but extremely debilitating since a tracheostomy has been necessary for breathing and removal of secretions from the lungs, a percutaneous gastrostomy feeding tube is necessary to provide alimentary nutrition since he is currently unable to swallow and radiation therapy is needed to complete the cancer treatment. Postoperatively Elton developed acute renal failure and is undergoing dialysis. Fortunately, his renal function is improving. Elton is still (as of 7/23/22) in University Hospital, but arrangements are being made for transfer to home next week. As you may be aware, Ann is just recently recovering from surgery for cancer and is undergoing chemotherapy. Unfortunately, she has developed peripheral neuropathy involving her legs and feet as a complication of the chemo. Elton and Ann need our prayers during this physically and mentally stressful time. Their address is 7520 Home Road, Delaware, OH 43015.

ON-LINE JUDGING SEMINARS – The Northeast Region of ARS (of which Buckeye District is a member) is offering four on-line judging seminars (Aug. 6, 13, 20 & 27) which will allow accredited judges to fulfill their four hour (every four years) judging seminar requirement. Therefore, we will not need to have in-person judging seminars in the foreseeable future. If you attend a seminar, ARS will record and report your attendance. I refer you to the Judges' Roster in this issue of the Buckeye Bulletin. The year in which you need to attend four hours of seminar credit follows your name. The number in parentheses is the hours you have accumulated toward the four hour requirement. I encourage you to take advantage of the seminar opportunity in August.

TOP GUN – I regret that persistence of the Covid pandemic necessitated cancelation of the 2022 Top Gun meeting. A 2023 Top Gun meeting will be planned and hopefully accomplished.

2022 BUCKEYE DISTRICT FALL CONFERENCE AND ROSE SHOW – The conference and rose show will be held on Saturday, September 24th, again at All Occasions Catering in Waldo. In view of the decreased number of rose shows in our district, horticulture judges of the district show will judge either miniature/miniflora classes or large flowered classes and will be encouraged to enter the classes that they are not judging. This offers judges an opportunity to exhibit and should increase the number of entries in the show. A registration form is in this issue.

Buckeye District History

Susan Courter Buckeye District Historian housethatmends13@gmail.com

Living in Michigan, with thoughts of a farming future in their dreams, my Grandfather Bird, with his future wife, and his acting chaperone mother, hopped into his Chevy 2-door in the summer of 1933 headed towards the "Windy City" - Chicago, IL. With no air conditioning in those days, I can only imagine the stifling heat that the ride would have been. He had read about the World's Fair - "Century of Progress" - Exposition 1933 and being held in Chicago with its Agricultural Buildings and a display of modern farm equipment, as well as new techniques in agriculture from around the world. These were hard times; the Great Depression was in full swing and this endeavor of Olympic size proportions was an important opportunity to bridge gaps with other nations, and to raise people's hope for the future. The ride to Chicago from Ann Arbor was an all-day affair, traveling less ways at the breaking speed of 40 to 45

mph, meals would have been packed in a basket for a quick picnic along the roadside. Arriving late in the afternoon, my grandfather stayed at the newly built "The Lawson" -Y.M.C.A. on W. Chicago Ave., an affordable stay only for men, one-mile north of the business district, while his mother and his future bride stayed at a local hotel. The Art Deco "Lawson House" still stands today and is being renovated into apartments for 74.2 million; original cost to build was $2,754,000 in 1931.

After a much-needed nights rest, I'm sure the morning light of the city took their breaths away, as it revealed the grandeur of Lake Michigan and surrounding skyscrapers of the day, let alone walking up to the gates of the fair's entrance. Spectacular and quite overwhelming in its enormity, the Fair showcased so many modern advancements in houses of the future, new automobile designs, babies living in incubators and a midway featuring the "Skyride. The Skyride was a cable-suspended people mover higher than any building in Chicago and this Fair was its debut. As you can guess, my interest falls to introducing you to the "Rose Garden" at this exposition. Putting my description into words of this monumental undertaking, wouldn't even come close to relaying the set-up, up-keeping and maintenance that this exhibit required. Here in his own words from the Annuals is Charles N. Evans portrayal of the "Rose Garden" which was housed in the "Floriculture" area at the World's Fair of 1933. Enjoy!

To the Rose, Susan Courter, Historian

The Century of Progress Rose-Garden

By CHARLES N. EVANS, Wilmette, Ills.

Editor's Note.—Early in 1932 effort was begun to arrange a creditable rose show at the World's Fair. It was not until Mr. Evans (a member of the American Rose Society) took up the problem that progress was made. New methods and boundless energy brought success.

HE World's Fair rose-garden was started on March 1, 1933. The location was shifting sand, eighty feet in depth, which a year previously had been eighty feet of Lake Michigan water. The ultimate results looked hopeless on that cold, bleak March morning when we were staking the outer boundary lines for this garden. The wind whipped the sand with a force that fairly cut the skin, and vision was almost impossible.

On March 2 the big "bulldozer," weighing several tons, arrived to excavate and remove two feet of sand which was used to make the rock-gardens in other portions of the Horticultural grounds. It seemed that it would take ages to accomplish this particular undertaking. Day after day the big machine would rock back and forth, pushing mountains of sand. From good authority, I understand that great quantities of sand are as difficult to move as solid rock.

By March 20 it was assured that the planting could begin on April 1. The rose bushes were ordered shipped at once. Then, unexpectedly, the machine broke down, and was in repair for a week. Finally the plot, 220 by 110 feet, was gouged out. Clay enough to make a six-inch bottom was distributed and rolled until it was hard. The remainder of the fill was made with black earth and finished to a smooth, firm surface.

During this time, on April 2, four thousand rose bushes had arrived; they had to remain in the boxes until April 10. When they were taken out, many were covered with mold. It was washed off with a solution of baking soda and the plants were heeled in in sand. Every few days these bushes were taken up and reheeled, and each time they were flushed with cold water. (We were trying to prevent root- and top-growth.) On April 20 planting was begun, and then, night and day, rain poured.

Standing on boards, covered with raincoats and in rubber boots, the gang worked. Time was too precious to wait for decent weather, and on April 26 planting was complete, except of those bushes which arrived later.

Because of the late planting and Chicago's late spring growing weather, June found us with very little top-growth. Many visitors from the South, Far West, and some portions of the East were surprised to see such low bushes. On June 7 the first blooms appeared.

With proper feeding, watering, and cultivation, by late July we had sufficient top-growth. Our fertilizer was Vigoro. There was no plant-food incorporated in the soil before planting, but every three weeks a handful was applied to each bush. To prevent burning the foliage, the fertilizer was always applied during the middle of the day, when the sun was shining.

As the rose-garden was divided into four small gardens, only one of them was fertilized in one day, and the entire garden received the application before any water was used. In watering, the hose was placed between the rose bushes and allowed to flow softly until the beds were soaked.

Spraying was kept up every seven days with Tri-ogen. Because the garden was so near the lake, which naturally causes a damp atmosphere, especially at night, and because we had to water at night lest we drench the visitors if it were done in the daytime, our greatest fear was mildew. Black-spot is also very prevalent in this locality. However, we were completely free of mildew and black-spot at all times. While we were blessed in not having the rose beetle, all chewing insects were kept out. Two attacks of aphides were quickly repelled.

In August came the big surprise—red spider! I must admit that this was due to my ignorance. This trouble should have been anticipated in time to avoid it. The gardens across the walk were stocked and restocked at their respective flowering times by potted plants from greenhouses. Everyone should know that potted greenhouse plants may be infected with red spider. Also, because last summer was very dry and hot, the spider had every advantage. I did not realize the trouble until considerable damage had occurred. Then special syringing nozzles were attached to the water hose and the spiders were shot out of the foliage with force. Two applications of doublestrength Tri-ogen No. 2 were made, four days apart, to catch the oncoming brood, and the spider trouble was over.

All through the hot, dry summer the roses flourished. September gave a good account. The first two weeks of October were cold and rainy; the latter part of the month cold, but in spite of freezing weather the roses grew and bloomed and were still going strong in November.

Visitors from California, Oregon, and other rose-favored states began to ask, "How was it done? Roses blooming from June into November in Chicago?" Some visitors stated that they came from municipal gardens and would like to know what system we used to evade the cold weather. We had undoubtedly the best showing of the entire season in early November. The plants were somewhat short on foliage, but not on blooms.

After October 10, when the cold weather began, there were frosts, sleet, and snowstorms and freezing, but winter could not deter the roses! We began each morning at 4 o'clock to thaw out the bushes with water from the hose. Full-blown roses that had been frozen would perish, but the buds develop to maturity. The application of water had to be kept up until the warmth of the day prevented its freezing, usually about 10 o'clock.

"Believe it or not," we have seen all the rose bushes in the garden lying on the ground covered with ice, and then recover to bloom again. But on the morning of November 9, winter delivered a knock-out punch—9 degrees above zero—and that was the end. Unfortunately it caused several people to lose their bets that roses would be blooming outdoors in Chicago when the Fair closed on November 12.

The Fair will reopen in 1934, and we hope that the management will see fit to double the space for the rose-garden, so that twelve thousand or more bushes can be planted. We realize that a great improvement can be made the next time. We offer no apologies for last year's garden. It was the best that we could do under the circumstances, and we are proud of the showing which was made in attempting what was heretofore believed to be impossible in Chicago's erratic climate.

Our History

Founded in 1892, the American Rose Society is the oldest single plant horticultural society in America. The ARS is an educational, nonprofit organization dedicated exclusively to the cultivation and enjoyment of roses. ARS supports its members by providing educational programs, resourceful publications, and continuing research. We have more than 300 affiliated rose societies in our national network.

Most ARS members are home gardeners like you who enjoy growing roses and want to expand their knowledge of rose culture. Many members also enjoy the thrill of exhibiting their roses in competition with other rose-lovers or participating in photography contests and other rose-related activities. The American Rose Society has developed standards and guidelines for judging these competitions. We also publish a schedule of the various workshops, seminars, garden events and rose shows across the United States. The Society publishes an award-winning bi-monthly magazine, American Rose, which is devoted exclusively to roses and rose culture.

ARS is headquartered on the grounds of the beautiful American Rose Center near Shreveport, Louisiana. The American Rose Center features more than 20,000 rose bushes that comprise nearly 400 cultivars of modern and old garden roses.

ARS is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit educational organization governed by a volunteer Board of Directors and operated by the staff under the direction of our Executive Director and Executive Committee. All donations are tax deductible, as allowed by law.

Mission Statement

The American Rose Society exists to promote the culture and appreciation of the rose, through education and research, to members, to local rose societies and their members, and to the public.

Vision Statement

The rose is America's national Floral Emblem. We aspire to be the nation's best source for information, research and education about the rose for our members and for the general public. We will share this information through a website, a national network of Consulting Rosarians, and rose shows and non-competitive rose exhibitions open to the general public.
